NEWTON, MA—Today, 12 Pines Press has won a gold medal for Book Design Made Simple at the Next Generation Indie Book Awards ceremony in Chicago, IL. The winning category is Writing and Publishing. Coauthors Fiona Raven and Glenna Collett were on hand to receive their medals at the ceremony at Chicago's Newberry Library.

The Next Generation Indie Book Awards is the largest not-for-profit book awards program for indie authors and independent publishers. The contest was established to recognize and honor the most exceptional independently published books in over 70 different categories. The full list of 2016 finalists and winners is available at http://www.indiebookawards.com/2016_winners_and_finalists.php.

Coauthor Glenna Collett comments, "About 85 percent of all books coming out now are published by small presses or individual authors. These new entrants in the marketplace are catching on that their books must look professional in order to be accepted by retailers, so we wrote Book Design Made Simple so they can compete for the attention they deserve."
